

Solid products of thermocatalytic destruction of polyethylene

© Ljubov V. Furda, Irina G. Ryl'tsova, and Olga E. Lebedeva *⁺

Department of General Chemistry. Belgorod State University.

Pobeda St., 85. Belgorod, 308015. Russia. Phone: +7 (4722) 30-11-68.

*Supervising author; ⁺Corresponding author

Keywords: catalytic destruction, polyethylene, aluminum silicates.

Abstract

It has been shown that in the process of polyethylene destruction a layer of X-ray amorphous carbonaceous compacting products is formed on the surface of aluminium silicate catalyst. Characteristics of compacting products – maximum temperature of oxidation and heating value – depend on the composition of aluminium silicate catalyst.